INTRODUCTION POINTS

- Perhaps best known for his run across the United States in 1978 for the Jimmy Fund of Boston, McGillivray ran a total of 3,452 miles in 80 days averaging 45-miles a day.
- In May 2004, McGillivray ran across the country again, this time with nine other veteran marathoners, in relay style, from San Francisco to Boston as part of TREK USA, an event which he founded and raised over $300,000 for five children's charities.
- McGillivray is Race Director of the world's oldest and most famous road race, the B.A.A. Boston Marathon for which he has worked tirelessly for 23 years. He also serves as Race Director of the BAA Half Marathon and the BAA 5K.
- Personally has run 125 marathons including the Boston Marathon for the past 38 consecutive years, the last 23 at night after his race director duties have been completed.
- As a personal challenge at age 12, he began running his age in miles on his birthday each year, never having missed a year in the past 43 years. In 2008, Dave ran 54 miles in August to celebrate his 54th birthday and finished in Fenway Park, celebrating the 30th anniversary of his run across America and raising $35,000 for the Jimmy Fund.
- Logged more than 140,000 miles in his lifetime (to date).
- Given more than 1,500 motivational speeches to audiences throughout the US and the world.
- McGillivray is owner and President of Dave McGillivray Sports Enterprises, Inc. For over 25 years, "DMSE," as its known, has produced or consulted on over 850 mass-participatory athletic events nationally and internationally.
- Millions and millions of dollars have been raised for charity through both McGillivray's personal efforts and by events his company, DMSE, Inc., has managed.
- Recipient of the Lifetime Achievement Award by Competitor Magazine in 2000.
- Road Race Management and Running Times Magazine named McGillivray Race Director of the Year in 2000.
- Inducted into the Running USA Hall of Champions in January 2005. The Hall of Champions is intended to celebrate members of the running industry who have made exceptional contributions to the development of the sport. Inductees are nationally prominent and have a lifetime of achievement, innovation, service and leadership in the running community.
- Created The DMSE Children's Fitness Foundation, a non-profit aimed at paving a road to a healthier future by funding nonprofit organizations that use running as vehicle to promote physical fitness in children.
- McGillivray has authored a book titled, The Last Pick, with Linda Glass Fechter and published by Rodale Press, which chronicles his career while motivating and inspiring the reader to never underestimate their own ability, to set goals and to achieve what is thought to be the impossible.
- Recipient of the 2007 Runner's World Heroes of Running Award, "honoring outstanding individuals from the running community whose achievements and contributions are nothing short of extraordinary."
- Awarded the Lazarus House "Christ the Servant Award" in 2006 for continuous dedication to the unloved and forgotten who are served by the Lazarus House Ministries.
- Proclaimed "Honorary Citizen" of the Town of Hopkinton, Massachusetts - March, 2007.
- Recipient of the "Jimmy Award" from the Jimmy Fund, which honors celebrities who over the years have committed themselves to the mission of the Dana-Farber and the Jimmy Fund.
